

Sharing Stories

The Malibu Library began the first Winter Storytime of the new year on Wednesday. Children’s Librarian Leena Walker shared books and spoke about the upcoming Chinese New Year. After listening to stories, the children decorated horses to celebrate Chinese New Year, The Year of the Horse. Walker’s happy to begin story time again, she said, “The library is a creative environment where families can relax and share the joy of reading, exploring and using one’s imagination.” Winter Storytime takes place every Wednesday through Feb. 12, baby and toddlers (0-2) storytime and play 11:30-12:30, and preschool (2+) storytime and crafts 3:30-4:30.

MUSE SCHOOL INSTILLS SELF EFFICACY

“I am successful because I think, believe and feel I can be.”

- Self efficacy is one’s belief in his or her capabilities to achieve a task or outcome.
- Self efficacy is a key predictor of achievement and retention in academics.
